

THE UNITED NATIONS
AND ISRAEL

Decades of political maneuverings have created a disproportionate volume of resolutions, reports and conferences criticizing Israel. In many cases, rather than helping the Palestinian cause, this reality has hampered the ability of the UN to fulfill its role effectively.”

—UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon, 2016¹

Supporters of Israel feel that it is harshly judged by standards that are not applied to its enemies—and too often this is true, particularly in some UN bodies.”

—UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan, 2006²

The United Nations' Mission Challenged

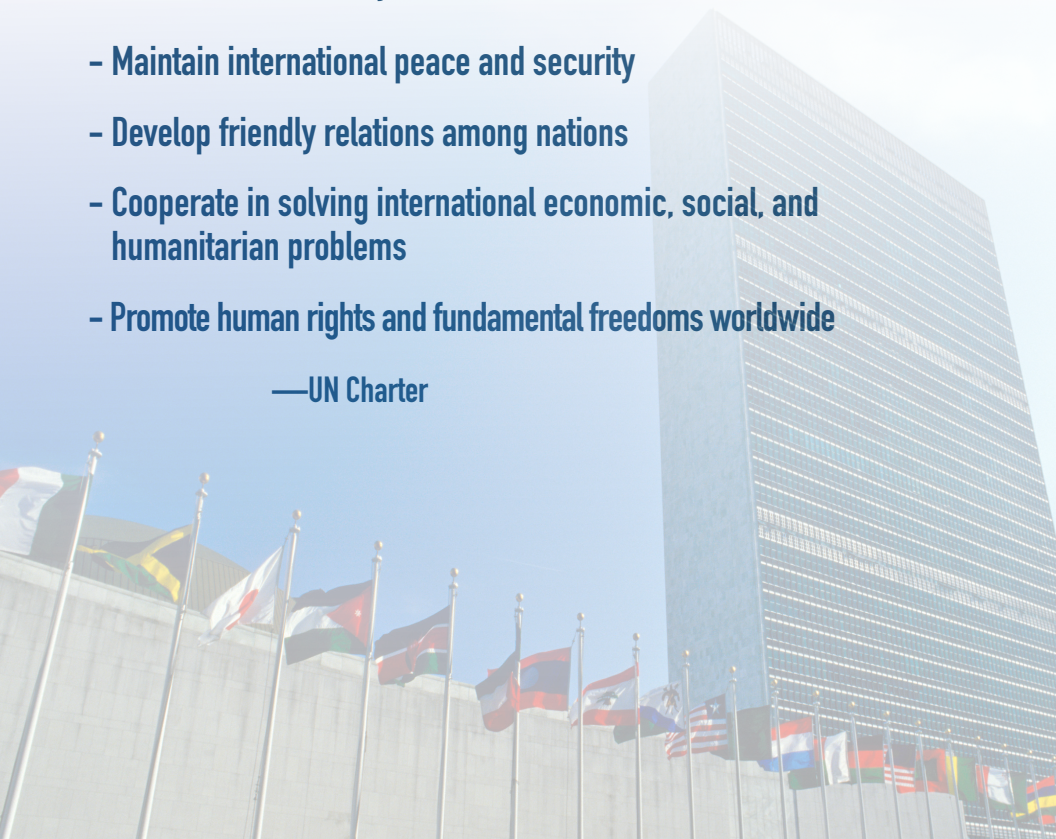

1945: U.S. President Truman addresses the charter session of the UN.

The UN, founded in 1945, originally had only 50 member states with five permanent Security Council members (the great powers that won WWII: China, France, the Soviet Union, the United Kingdom, and the United States). Three of the five (France, the UK, and the U.S.) were democracies.

The UN Had Worthy Goals

- Maintain international peace and security
- Develop friendly relations among nations
- Cooperate in solving international economic, social, and humanitarian problems
- Promote human rights and fundamental freedoms worldwide

UN Goals Challenged By Undemocratic Member States

As the UN grew to 193 members, it admitted many undemocratic countries that formed a majority voting bloc. In 2012, 55 percent of member states were not fully free democracies. Many used UN organs to support Palestinian extremism and obsessively single out and denounce only one country: Israel.

- Resolutions Condemning Israel
- Resolutions Condemning Every Other Member State Combined

Israel's "rights...to participate in the work of the United Nations are largely nullified by its exclusion from membership of a regional group....[T]his...is without a doubt morally shocking; but it is also manifestly unlawful and constitutes a breach of both the letter and the spirit of the Charter of the United Nations."

—Sir Robert Jennings, QC, Judge (1982-1995) and President (1991-1994) of the International Court of Justice, November 1999

The UN Violated Equality Of All Member States For Decades

UN Charter: The UN "is based on the principle of the sovereign equality of all its Members."

The Reality: UN members are organized into five regional groups that select candidates for most UN bodies. Arab states, however, barred Israel from its geographic, regional group, making Israel ineligible for candidacy in most UN bodies.

The Western European and Others Group (WEOG) finally included Israel as a temporary member in 2000 but only in the UN's New York City location.

Until it was admitted as a full member in 2013, Israel remained unequal in all UN offices outside of New York. It was an observer rather than a full member of WEOG in Geneva, Nairobi, Rome, and Vienna, meaning that it could not participate in certain meetings held in these offices.³

Israel was the only one of all 193 member states denied full membership status.

(1946–2006)

UN Commission On Human Rights (1946–2006)

The Commission was established to promote fundamental human rights and freedoms. Yet, autocratic nations and systematic human rights violators sat on the Commission, while Israel was barred from regional meetings.

Israel equaled those of all other country-specific resolutions combined. No resolutions condemned China, Syria, Libya, Zimbabwe, Sudan, or other states that routinely violate human rights.

By 2006, resolutions condemning

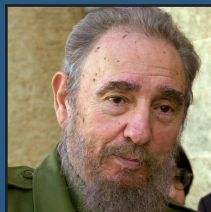

Aware that the Commission had degenerated into a forum for demonizing Israel, the UN voted to disband it in March 2006.

UN Human Rights Council (March 2006—Present)

Former UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan expressed hope that the new Council would restore balance and that “we are not going to see a situation where it focuses on Israel...but not on the others.”⁴ Since then, the Council has shown the same selectivity and politicization as the Commission, destroying hopes for reform.

Similar to its predecessor, the Human Rights Council is home to rogue regimes, human rights abusers, and state sponsors of terrorism that target free democracies like Israel.

UN Agencies Aid Or Fail To Stop Terrorism

UNRWA (1949–Present)

UNRWA (the UN Relief and Works Agency for Palestinian Refugees) is the only UN agency dedicated exclusively to one group of refugees and all their descendants. Its purpose was humanitarian: to provide education, health, relief, and social services to registered Palestinian refugees until they were resettled. Nearly 70 years after 1948, they and three generations of their descendants still have not been resettled.

UNRWA Has Abetted Terrorism Against Israel.

- Posters celebrating suicide bombers appear on UNRWA buildings and schools.
- Six registered Palestinian refugees blew up their houses while making bombs, yet none of them were denied benefits by UNRWA.
- Palestinians have used UNRWA ambulances to transport weapons, explosives and suicide bombers.
- UNRWA schools and youth centers have been used by Palestinian terrorists as meeting areas and hiding places.

A Palestinian terrorist enters a UN ambulance. There have been numerous reported cases of Palestinian terrorists using ambulances to smuggle arms and fighters.

UNIFIL (1978–Present)

UNIFIL (UN Interim Force in Lebanon) was created to stabilize the region and the Lebanese government. Yet UNIFIL has not confronted the terrorist organizations that threaten Lebanese sovereignty and Israeli civilians.

- In 1978 UNIFIL failed to stop PLO terrorists from attacking Israeli civilians from Lebanon.
- In 2000, Hezbollah terrorists dressed as UNIFIL workers crossed into Israel, detonated roadside bombs, and kidnapped three Israeli soldiers. The UN possessed videotapes that could have helped Israel find the soldiers and terrorists, but it withheld and buried the video.
- UNIFIL has failed to enforce UN Security Council Resolution 1701 calling for Hezbollah's disarmament. Instead, Hezbollah has developed a powerful arsenal of over 130,000 rockets, aided by Iran.

The UN Has Failed to Combat Terrorism⁶

- The UN has been unable to agree upon a definition of terrorism, largely because the 57 states in the Organisation of Islamic Cooperation insist on using a definition that would legitimize terrorist organizations like Hamas.
- Since its founding in 2001, the UN’s Counter-Terrorism Committee (CTC) has failed to name a single terrorist, terrorist organization, or state sponsor of terrorism. Syria sat on the CTC from 2002 to 2003 despite being designated a state sponsor of terrorism by the U.S. State Department.
- Only Al-Qaeda and the Taliban are listed as terrorists by any UN body. In contrast, the State Department has listed nearly 50 terrorist entities worldwide.

UN Corruption And Hypocrisy

"UN officials fear the sex abuse scandal among peacekeepers in Africa... [is] a problem in each of the global body's missions around the world." —Reuters, Feb. 25, 2005

Systematic Sexual Abuse In The UN's Worldwide Missions:⁷

BOSNIA: UN staff involved in prostitution rackets, sexual abuse, rape, and sex slaves from 1992 to 2000.

WEST AFRICA: Widespread pattern of sexual abuse, rape, and violence by UN aid workers. Child refugees forced to sell sex for food and services in 2002.

THE CONGO: 150 allegations against UN peacekeepers, including pedophilia, rape, gang rape, and prostitution. UN personnel traded eggs and peanut butter for sex with girls as young as 11. In 2004 UNICEF treated 2,000 victims of sexual violence committed by UN peacekeepers in the Bunia region.

HAITI: In 2012 UN police officers were accused of abusing and sexually exploiting children.⁸

Rewarding The World's Worst Human Rights Abusers

Instead of holding the worst human rights violators accountable, the UN General Assembly raises them to seats of power and influence:

Sudan	Darfur genocide; unlawful killing, torture, beating, and rape of prisoners	Elected to ECOSOC, a top UN body that oversees human rights committees
Syria	Massive government violence against civilians during Syria's ongoing civil war	UNESCO voted to keep Syria on its human rights committee in 2012
